Superintendent's Report

February 14, 1922.

To the Board of Education and Citizens of the School District of Danbury:

Gentlemen:

It gives me pleasure to submit my third annual report as superintendent of the schools of Danbury. The statistical table and honor roll of attendance are included.

You were fortunate in retaining for the year three resident teachers who maintained a high standard of work. The teacher at South Danbury although very young and with but six weeks of normal school training obtained particularly good results along certain lines. On the whole it was a good year in our schools. Whatever may be said and done by the School Board and the Superintendent the highest factor of efficiency is always the teacher.

Our text books and equipment are receiving additions from time to time. Geographies of New England were added last year for the fifth grade, supplementary readers for several grades, and history stories for the intermediate grades. "Minimum Standards for the First Three Grades," were issued two years ago by the State Board of Education with the note that "These are minimum standards. They must be reached by all schools, but good schools will do more than is here outlined." The first grade requirement in reading is "(a) Ability to read from the board in both script and print, sentences composed of common words, in the normal vocabulary of children. (b) Ability as a result of word drills to recognize instantly simple words and combinations of words. (c) The realization on the part of children that books contain interesting stories and are worth reading. (d) The reading in class of six to eight primers, first readers and children's classics. (e) Ability to read at sight and understandingly from any easy first reader." To us who never had but one primer, that one over which we struggled for several terms, this requirement seems impossible; but we find it can be covered. One condition is that the right and necessary books be provided. We attempt to meet the demand by buying only five to twelve of a kind and letting them go the round of the schools. This makes work in the book-room and for the superintendent, but enables us to have a large amount of reading with a small investment of school money. The same plan is followed in each of the other grades. In the second year the requirement is "The reading in class of six to eight first and second readers and children's classics. The reading out of class of eight to ten books of the grade of first and second readers." We have not yet this number available, but are adding new sets from time to time. Perhaps no other one thing does so much to develop a child's natural ability for school work as this abundant practice in reading. We seldom in these days hear any of the old-time word by word reading. The children read for the thought, as grown-ups read, not for the individual words.

In addition to reading books and a few other texts the equipment has been improved by the addition of several new wall maps, one globe, and arithmetic charts. Other maps are needed, also entirely new sets of arithmetics and language books, those in use being worn out and at best far inferior to other texts now published.

Standard tests in various subjects are being given, that pupils may be correctly classed. Intelligence tests are also given whenever that seems necessary to determine the children's ability.

Our high school students are in general doing creditable work. Last year we had no one completing the eighth grade. This year there will be only one or two, while next year there should be ten or more. Our tuition bills are large but probably no money is expended to better advantage for the future citizenship of the town. We do not want to educate our boys and girls away from our town and its interests, but to educate them to make the most out of what they find here, to be able to enjoy to the fullest extent the advantages of our country life. Our best rural teachers are the girls raised in our rural communities.

A study of our statistical tables shows a decrease of 13 from the previous year in the number of pupils registered, a decrease of 5 in average attendance, the same per cent. of attendance, 93, which is one point higher than the average in the elementary schools throughout the state; and a decrease of 55 per cent. in the number of tardinesses, which is a striking improvement. Our attendance would be much higher but for a few families living at a distance from school who are indifferent as to school attendance and who are hard to control because of home conditions and poor health which gives cover for unnecessary as well as necessary absences. Where the parents are interested in their children's progress they have spared no effort to get them to school even through severe weather and over bad roads. The children thus kept regularly in school are generally the ones who stand high in their classes.

Little health work has yet been done, but there has been a start toward improved conditions. The medical inspection last May showed 12 children with defective vision, 42 with defective teeth, 19 with hypertrophied tonsils, and 2 with defects of breathing. Notices were sent to the parents of all children needing treatment. Defective teeth is one of the most serious handicaps to a child, and one most easily prevented if care is taken. As so many parents do not see the need of such care, or do not take the time for it, the teachers are attempting to teach proper habits to the children themselves. Hot lunches served at the noon hour add greatly to the health and happiness of the children without putting too great a burden upon the teacher. The plan is to serve hot cocoa, soup, or some other easily prepared dish to accompany whatever the child brings from home. This also gives the finest opportunity for teaching helpfulness and courtesy and makes the noon lunch period a more profitable hour in every way.

A few minor improvements have been made in school property since the last annual report was made. At the Center the new window and door frames have been painted on the outside and windows added to the toilets. At South Danbury the vault has been boarded up, making it fly-proof and sanitary. At Elmwood the paper on walls and ceiling has been replaced with wallboard, and new curtains furnished. The greater needs this year are the following: at the Center a finish on the floor that will save it from unnecessary deterioration, a coat of paint on the wallboard and woodwork new two years ago and still unpainted; at South new wallboard to replace the torn and discolored wall paper; at Elmwood a coat of paint on the new walls and ceiling, and a walk connecting the toilets with the school entry. An estimate has been made of expense, which is included in the budget for the coming year.

Owing to the reduction by the legislature in the State Board's recommendation for equalization money, Danbury was first on the list of towns cut off from state aid this year. However, out of the unexpended balances from the various state aided towns last year, and the five per cent. of equalization funds to be used by the State Board for special needs, Danbury will receive this year $574.99. Although she may receive a similar amount next year it is not safe to depend upon that. We shall run our expenses as nearly as we can within the one half of one per cent. of the equalized valuation, which is the amount required to be raised to make us eligible for state aid whenever it may be available.

Respectfully submitted,

IDELLA K. FARNUM,
Superintendent of Supervisory Union, No. 1.
